THE IMPRINT OF THE CREATOR

All of nature that surrounds us is created like us, created together with us, and in a common destiny it tends to find its fulfilment and ultimate end in God Himself – the Bible says “new heavens and a new earth” (cf. Isaiah 65:17, 2 Peter 3:13, Revelations 21:1). This doctrine of our faith is an even stronger stimulus for us to have a responsible and respectful relationship with creation: in inanimate nature, in plants and in animals, we recognise the imprint of the Creator, and in our fellow kind, His very image.
